STATE UNIVERSITY OF NEW YORK, COLLEGE AT CORTLAND

Located atop one of the many hills in central New York's "City of Seven Valleys," the State University College at Cortland was founded in 1868 as the Cortland Normal School. Over the decades, the campus expanded and in 1941, by an act of the legislature and the Board of Regents, the institution officially became a college, providing four-year courses leading to the bachelor's degree. In 1948, the state legislature incorporated Cortland College into the new State University of New York.

Today, more than 5,600 undergraduate and 600 graduate students are pursuing degrees within the College's two academic divisions — Arts and Sciences and Professional Studies. Twenty-three departments with a faculty of more than 300 offer the Cortland State student body some 40 majors from which to choose, including liberal arts, elementary and secondary education, health and physical education, recreation education, speech education and speech & hearing handicapped education.

The College's main campus covers 190 acres and includes 30 major buildings. Thirteen of these structures are residence halls and provide on-campus housing for 2,600 students.

At Cortland State, athletics are viewed as having an important role in the educational mission of the College. During the fall, winter and spring seasons, Cortland State participates in 24 intercollegiate sports — 12 men's and 12 women's — in an attempt to provide a broad program of athletics which will meet the needs, interests and abilities of its students.

The stated objective of the College's athletic program is the development and welfare of the student. In the coaching of individual sports as well as in the direction of the overall athletic program, the College endeavors to provide a high calibre of professional leadership which is consistent with the goals of the institution.

Cortland State is particularly proud of its long tradition of intercollegiate athletics and its high standing in small college athletic circles. In support of this heritage, the College offers its student-athletes a number of outstanding indoor and outdoor facilities which are used for intercollegiate competition as well as educational and recreational purposes. The Park Center for Physical Education and Recreation, opened in 1973, features a main gymnasium with a seating capacity of 3,600, an Olympic-size swimming pool with gallery seating for 1,500, and an ice arena which can accommodate 2,500 spectators.

In addition, Lusk Field House provides an extensive area for indoor practice sessions and activity classes and is the home of the men's and women's indoor track teams. The College has approximately 50 acres of athletic fields. Davis Field, with a seating capacity of 5,000, is the home of the Red Dragon football and lacrosse squads. Adjacent to Davis Field and the Park Center are 24 tennis courts.

IN TRIBUTE

The untimely death last autumn of Chris Koval was a frustrating experience for all who knew him. The young Cortland native came to Cortland State with a broad array of physical and mental talents, including record-setting performances as an All-America prep school lacrosse player.

The drive that Chris displayed to perfect his gifts should serve as a motivating example for all of us who are fortunate to participate in this great game of lacrosse.

HEAD COACH JERRY CASCIANI

A member of the Cortland State faculty since 1970, Dr. Jerry Casciani begins his second season as the Red Dragon head lacrosse coach.

Casciani, a native of Niagara Falls, N.Y., maintains a coaching philosophy that demands discipline and responsibility from his players, but in turn allows them a greater amount of freedom on the playing field.

"A coach needs to be the leader of a team," says Casciani, who directed Baltimore (MD) Junior College to the unofficial national title in 1967. "His goal is to develop the abilities of his players to ultimately function without him, if necessary. The coach makes the critical decisions and imposes discipline, but he teaches his players to take responsibility on the field."

"I don't believe in 'puppet coaching', in pulling the strings and coaching all the specific moves of the players," admits Casciani. "Lacrosse, if played really well, is a creative game. If a coach tries to control all the moves of his lacrosse players, he's making a mistake. I like creative players. There are limitations, of course. But I want my players to react to situations on the field. It's up to me to teach them how in practice."

"The more responsibility the players can take, the better off they are as a team," says Casciani. "One of the most important things a coach can do is to teach his players to do things on their own, to initiate their own responsibilities. The coach won't be there once the player leaves Cortland."

In addition to serving as assistant lacrosse coach at C-State, Casciani has also been the Red Dragon head wrestling coach, assistant wrestling coach, and currently directs the Cortland State football linebacking corps.

Casciani earned a Bachelor of Science degree from Springfield College in 1959, a master's degree from Penn State in 1960, and an Ed.D. in Physical Education from West Virginia University in 1980.

He played semi-pro football in Pennsylvania for two seasons and was an assistant grid coach at Manhasset (NY) High School. From 1964-67, Casciani was head lacrosse and wrestling coach, and assistant football coach at Baltimore Junior College. Before coming to Cortland State, Casciani served as district chairman of health and physical education of the Northeastern School District of York County, Pa.

An associate professor on the Cortland Physical Education faculty, Jerry and his wife, Judith Lee, and their children, Christopher, 16, and Jennifer, 13, reside in Cortland.

DRAGONS' 1985 SUCCESS HINGES ON TEAMWORK

After a two-year hiatus, Cortland State returned in 1984 to the NCAA Div. III Lacrosse Tournament — an annual Red Dragon haunt for a decade. Cortland lost its playoff opener, but second-year Cortland mentor Jerry Casciani sees a march to the title game as his team's major objective in 1985.

"We will be a much better team this year," said Casciani, whose unit finished 8-6 a year ago, "but so will some of our opponents."

The Dragons open with three tough road games: Army, which replaces Cornell on the Dragon slate; Salisbury State, which eliminated Cortland from the NCAA's last spring; and Div. I runner-up Syracuse University at the Carrier Dome.

To keep pace with the talented opposition, Coach Casciani has placed the emphasis on "team play" during the 1985 pre-season workouts. From defense to attack, Casciani has noted an improvement in teamwork — something he considers vital to Cortland's goal of an NCAA championship game appearance.

"We're more disciplined, more structured than we were a year ago," explained Casciani. "These were weaknesses for us last year. On defense, we're doing some different things. The players seem to understand the team concepts better."

In general, Cortland State will return a veteran team.

On attack, senior Mike Perkins, a three-time All-Conference and two-time All-America player, needs 41 points to surpass Jud Smith, Mike Hoppey and Mark Koetzner as the all-time Red Dragon career scoring leader. He will team again with soph Tim DeLany (27 goals, 17 assists) and junior John McNerney (35 goals, 14 assists).

"Even though Perkins is an outstanding individual player, DeLany, when he was healthy, was our offensive catalyst last year," said Casciani. "This year, they are both working really, really well together. McNerney was our most improved player in 1984. He was our second leading scorer last year."

Supporting the veteran Dragon attack trio will be soph Mark Branski (16 goals, 8 assists), freshman Paul Cicio — an All-America for Huntington High last season, and freshman Fred Saracene, who's just completing his season as a defenseman on the Cortland State hockey team.

Casciani sees the greatest team depth in the Cortland midfield.

All-conference middle Paul Jones (21 goals, 7 assists), Hudson Valley CC transfer and former high school All-America at Tully High, Red Hutson, and senior Dave Cook, the Dragons' All-America football running back, combine for an experienced corps of middle frontrunners. But Casciani anticipates employing three midfield lines in 1985.

Soph Bob Williams, who started on the first midfield last season, along with juniors Andy Lux and Ray Mattfeld all return to form another pre-season midfield.

Juniors John Caveny and Evan Malings, along with California native Erik Holtzemann who comes to the Dragons after playing at Southampton College a year ago, Watertown freshman John Combs, junior Jim Gunnip, Montgomery College transfer Scott Schwind and East Meadow frosh Sandy Frazetta will compete for the third midfield. Frazetta will handle the Dragon faceoffs this spring.

Gone from the Dragon defense are All-Americans Greg Hall and Gerry Cushing. In their stead, Casciani will use his revamped defensive "teamwork" schemes, which include less reliance upon the defensive midfielders and a greater use of zone defenses.

Two starters, senior Rick Young and sophomore Kevin Knorr, are back. Soph John McCarthy shifts from midfield to close defense. Veteran midfield defenseman Tom Manning will again lead that unit. Junior Greg Briggs should be used primarily on close defense, while sophomore Craig Papach and freshmen Jeff Thomas and Chris Tedeschi will be used employed at either close or midfield defense.

All-America keeper Scott Hayman has graduated. Battling to fill the void will be soph Bryan Nehring, who moved from attack to goal last year, and freshman Hal Newman from Ward-Melville High.

Casciani said of Newman, "He just keeps getting better. He's improved on his basics."

Newman, who won Suffolk County laurels as the Ward-Melville netminder, injured his shoulder in pre-season, but is expected to be ready to play by the start of the season.

"Basically, he's a well-coached goalie who performed well and gained experience in the high school lacrosse playoffs. He's a sound goalie; pretty 'cool' for a freshman."

Cortland will also have the services of sophomore Mike Marchese, a product of Sleepy Hollow High, as a goaltender this spring.

ASSISTANT COACH JOHN EBERENZ

An All-America attackman on Cortland State's powerhouse teams in the early 1970's, John Eberenz starts his second year as a Red Dragon assistant coach.

Born in Ancon, Panama, Eberenz grew up on Long Island and played his scholastic lacrosse at Plainview High. At Cortland State, John was on the lax team from 1969 to 1972. He won third team All-America honors as an attackman on the 1972 squad, to date the only small college lacrosse team ever invited to participate in the NCAA Division I Tournament.

Eberenz is a woodshop supervisor in the College's Art Department. He is single and resides in Cortland.

CORTLAND STATE: CRADLE OF LACROSSE COACHING

In 1984, the collegiate lacrosse coaches voted University of Pennsylvania head coach Tony Seaman the NCAA Div. I Coach of the Year for the second consecutive season, while Hobart College's Dave Urick led his team to the NCAA Div. III crown and Nassau Community College's Richie Speckman directed his squad the junior college national crown.

Seaman. Urick. Speckman. Three of the many Cortland State graduates who today permeate the lacrosse coaching ranks throughout the country. Indeed, in a sport with New York and Eastern Seaboard roots, Cortland State has become the cradle of lacrosse coaching.

Former C-State lax coach Chuck Winters, who first documented the extent of Cortland's lacrosse influence, cited three reasons for the phenomenon.

"One, there's a strong lacrosse program here," said Winters. "Secondly, there's the exceptional physical education major which we have maintained over the years. Lastly, because of the growth of lacrosse on Long Island, the high school opportunities in New York State expanded far beyond those of other states. With Cortland producing many of the state's physical education instructors, there was a natural outlet for these talented Cortland grads."
