CORTLAND STATE TODAY

Located atop one of the many hills in central New York's "City of Seven Valleys," the State University college at Cortland was founded in 1868 as the Cortland Normal School. Over the decades, the campus expanded and in 1941, by an act of the legislature and the Board of Regents, the institution officially became a college, providing four-year courses leading to the bachelor's degree. In 1948, the state legislature incorporated Cortland College into the new State University of New York.

Today, more than 5,400 undergraduate and 600 graduate students are pursuing degrees within the College's two academic divisions—Arts and Sciences and Professional Studies. Twenty-three departments with a faculty of more than 300 offer the Cortland State student body some 40 majors from which to choose, including liberal arts, elementary education and secondary education, health and physical education, recreation education, speech education and speech and hearing handicapped education.

The College's main campus covers 191 acres and includes 30 major buildings. Fourteen of these structures are residence halls and provide on-campus housing for 2,600 students.

At Cortland State, athletics are viewed as having an important role in the educational mission of the College. During the fall, winter and spring seasons, Cortland State participates in 24 intercollegiate sports 12 men's and 12 women's in an attempt to provide a broad program of athletics which will meet the needs, interests and abilities of its students.
