Dorothy Arnsdorff (Honorary) Cortland, N.Y.

Dorothy "Dottie" Arnsdorff, a Cortland faculty member from 1947 until her retirement in 1982, was a beacon of professionalism and a caring mentor to the thousands of Cortland women physical education majors she taught at the College.

"It's been said that a good coach is an excellent teacher, but the opposite is also true," noted Hall of Fame member Mary Morgan Hosking '53. "Dorothy Arnsdorff was an excellent teacher and two generations of coaches have benefitted by having her touch their lives. Every woman member of the C-Club Hall of Fame who attended Cortland during the Arnsdorff years was positively affected by her teaching standards. Her guidance, motivational skills, performance, ethical and academic standards were the model for women graduates privileged to have had her as an instructor."

"We did not have interscholastic athletics, as we know it today, but she instilled in us the importance of going out into the public schools to establish physical education and after-school programs, including interschool sports," recalled Barbara DiPalma '62, another C-Club Hall of Fame member.

"She planted the seeds. She encouraged, through example and word, many of us to be good role models, set high standards, to teach and encourage every child, regardless of skill level, and to believe that providing various levels of competition for girls was important."

A native of Savannah, Ga., Arnsdorff earned a bachelor's degree from Meredith College in Raleigh, N.C., a master's degree from Columbia University, and an Ed.D from Stanford University. Arnsdorff taught physical education at Randolph-Macon College in Lynchburg, Va., before coming to SUNY Cortland, where she attained the rank of full professor in 1960.

Arnsdorff served on countless campus committees, coordinated student teachers and wrote a student teaching handbook, advised graduate students, edited the College Bulletin for a year, served twice as interim department chair, and was active with the College's Outdoor Education Program. She edited several editions of a camp manual used for years and, in 1978, she received a special appreciation award by the College's staff at Raquette Lake. On the occasion of her retirement, the College created an award in her name for an outstanding graduating senior physical education major.

Prior to intercollegiate athletics, collegiate women in New York State competed on a limited basis under rules and structures created by the Association of Women in Physical Education in New York State (AWPENYS), the forerunner of today's New York State Women's Collegiate Athletic Association (NYSWCAA). Arnsdorff was active in the organization's many committees, in particular, the Dorothy Dietz Scholarship Committee, and earned honorary membership in 1983.

Established in 1969, the C-Club Hall of Fame recognizes Cortland alumni who competed as athletes at the College and who have since distinguished themselves in their professions and within their communities. New members have been added annually for the past 28 years. This year's ceremony will bring the Hall of Fame roster to 141 alumni and 14 honorary members.

A Special Thank You

The Cortland C-Club, the coaches and the student-athletes sincerely thank the following Hall of Famers, faculty members and friends of SUNY Cortland athletics for their generosity and thoughtfulness. Because of their voluntary donations, 98 Cortland student athletes – and possible future Hall of Famers themselves – are able to enjoy tonight's banquet and experience an evening dedicated to Cortland's proud athletic tradition.

State University of New York College at Cortland

Located atop one of the rolling hills in central New York's "City of Seven Valleys," the State University of New York College at Cortland was founded in 1868 as the Cortland Normal School, whose earliest students included inventor and industrialist Elmer A. Sperry of Sperry-Rand Corp. fame.

Over the decades, the campus expanded and in 1941, by an act of Legislature and the Board of Regents, the institution officially became a four-year college providing courses leading to the bachelor's degree. In 1948, Cortland was a founding member of State University of New York.

Today, more than 5,100 undergraduate and 1,200 graduate students are pursuing degrees within the College's two academic divisions – Arts and Sciences and Professional Studies. Twenty-three departments with a faculty of more than 300 offer the SUNY Cortland student body some 100 programs from which to choose.

The College's main campus covers 191 acres and includes 30 major buildings. Fourteen of these structures are residence halls providing on-campus housing for 2,600 students. Cortland also operates its Outdoor Education Center at Raquette Lake in the Adirondacks, the Hoxie Gorge Nature Preserve outside Cortland, and the Brauer Memorial Geological Field Station near Albany on the Helderberg Escarpment.

At Cortland, athletics are viewed as having an important role in the educational mission of the College. During the fall, winter and spring seasons, Cortland participates in 24 intercollegiate sports – 13 women's and 11 men's – in an attempt to provide a broad program which meets the needs, interests and abilities of its students.

The College offers its student-athletes excellent athletic facilities. The Bessie L. Park '01 Center for Physical Education and Recreation, opened in 1973, features a main gymnasium with seating for 3,600; an Olympic-sized swimming pool with gallery seating for 1,500; Alumni Arena which can accommodate 2,500 spectators for ice hockey; racquetball and squash courts, a wrestling room, modern athletic training facilities and the state-of-the-art Francis Woods '56 Fitness Center.

Nearby Lusk Field House, with its tartan-textured surface, is home for the indoor track teams, varsity practice sessions and recreational activities. The Red Dragon football and lacrosse squads compete on Davis Field with its 5,000 seating capacity. Cortland soccer teams play on Holloway Field, which has lights for night contests. The College also has 50 acres of athletic fields and 24 outdoor tennis courts.
