Phyllis D. Calogero '52 Barneveld, N.Y.

For four decades, Phyllis D. Calogero '52 was a driving force for junior and senior high school athletics as a physical educator, coach and athletic administrator in the Mohawk Valley and a Section III official for the New York State Public High School Athletic Association.

Born in Utica, N.Y., she graduated from T.R. Proctor High School. She earned both her bachelor's in physical education and master of science degree from SUNY Cortland. Despite not having intercollegiate athletic opportunities in college, Calogero devoted her life to athletics.

After graduating from Cortland, she returned to Proctor High as a physical education teacher and coach for the next 18 years. From 1970-83, she was associate director of physical education and athletics for the Rome (N.Y.) City School District, where she served as director of physical education, health and health services from 1983 until her retirement in 1986.

The Section III president from 1986-88, she also served as a member of its Executive Committee, Athletic Council and Officials Coordinating Committee. Prior to Title IX, she was an officer in the Association of Women in Physical Education in New York State (AWPENYS), which pioneered the involvement of high school girls athletic competition by scheduling interscholastic tournaments and meets.

Inducted into the Proctor High Hall of Fame in 1994 and the City of Rome Hall of Fame in 2004, she helped to organize and was later inducted into the Greater Utica Hall of Fame. She has been honored by Kiwanis International and the Salvation Army for her service to children.

An active community member, she chaired the Rome Mayor's Advisory Council on Sports, Recreation and Physical Fitness. She also chaired the local Salvation Army Board of Directors and the New York State Pupils Benefits Insurance Board of Directors. A past president of Zonta International of Rome, N.Y., she was an alternate delegate to two international conferences.

Calogero served on SUNY Cortland's Consortium to Change Competency based Teacher Education program, as well as the Utica Schools' Steering Committee for Middle States Association Accreditation, the Cancer Society Advisory Board and the Barneveld (N.Y.) Recreation Committee.

Named a National Women's History Woman of Merit in 1987, she received the Distinguished Service Award from the National Federation of Interscholastic Athletic Coaches five years later.

C. Glenn Stevens '54 Canastota, New York

Charles Glenn Stevens '54, a standout baseball and soccer player at Cortland, positively influenced the lives of two generations of students as a successful teacher, coach and administrator at Stockbridge Valley Central School in Munnsville, N.Y.

The Port Leyden, N.Y., native was a four-year goalie in soccer at SUNY Cortland. As a senior, he captained the team, earned honorable mention all-state honors and won the Red Letter Award. An outfielder and catcher for the Cortland baseball squad, he hit .439 as a junior and a .500 batting average during his senior season, when he was the team captain and the Red Letter Award recipient.

Stevens earned a bachelor's degree in physical education in 1954 and joined the Stockbridge Valley Central School staff that autumn. He remained there until his retirement 31 years later.

In 1995, he received the Excellence in Sportsmanship Award from the Stockbridge Valley Central School Booster Club.

Within the New York State Public High School Athletic Association (NYSPHSAA), Stevens chaired the Section III Basketball Committee for 10 years and served on the committee for a quarter-of-a-century.

For 10 years, he served as recreation director of Carlon Park in Munnsville. From 1960-68, he was elected mayor of the Village of Munnsville. He was active in both St. Therese Church in Munnsville and St. Patrick Church in Chittenango, N.Y. He was a member of the Chittenango High School Athletic Booster Club and a Connie Mack baseball coach for the Town of Sullivan Parks and Recreation Department in Chittenango during the 1970s and 1980s.

A member of the Chittenango Lions Club since 1974, he is a two-time past president. From 1955-85, he worked as a security guard at Vernon Downs Racetrack in Vernon, N.Y. Since 1986, he has operated his own financial services business.

James "Doc" Counsilman Honorary

Arguably the world's greatest swimming coach, researcher and innovator of all time, the late James "Doc" Counsilman left his mark at SUNY Cortland as a physical education professor and swim coach in the early 1950s before becoming an NCAA and Olympic coaching legend at Indiana University.

Born in 1920, he grew up in St. Louis, Mo. and attended Ohio State University. He left to join the Army Air Corps, flying 32 missions as a bomber pilot during World War II. After the war, he returned to Ohio State and won national titles in the 200-yard breaststroke.

Graduating in 1947, he earned a master's degree at the University of Illinois, writing his thesis on the breast stroke. In 1951, he earned a doctorate from the University of Iowa, where his dissertation focused on the crawl stroke.

Counsilman joined the SUNY Cortland Physical Education Department faculty and became the swim coach in 1952. Over the next five years, he employed some of his soon-to-be famous swimming techniques to develop George Breen, a Cortland student athlete and future charter member of the C-Club Hall of Fame, into one of America's top swimmers, a world record holder, Olympic medalist and U.S. swim team captain.

By 1954, Counsilman was attracting national attention for his publications about the importance of improving the muscular strength of swimmers.

After leaving SUNY Cortland in 1957, he built Indiana University's swim program into one of the greatest dynasties in collegiate athletics. Over the next 33 years, Counsilman's squads posted a 285-41 record, including 18 undefeated seasons — 12 in a row — while winning 20 Big Ten titles and six straight NCAA national championships. His student-athletes included Olympian Mark Spitz, who won a record seven gold medals in 1972.

Counsilman coached the USA men's swim team to 9-of-11 gold medals at the 1964 Olympics in Tokyo and 12-of-13 gold medals at Montreal in 1976. The two other golds won at Tokyo were by international student-athletes on his Indiana team.

His research and innovations in stroke mechanics and training technique led him to write The Science of Swimming, now considered the bible of swimming instruction. He invented several swimming apparatuses that are staples in the sport today.

The Indiana University-Bloomington's Counsilman/Billingsley Aquatic Center and the Counsilman Center for the Science of Swimming bear his name. The Indiana University Natatorium, located on the Indiana University-Purdue University of Indiana campus, was designed by Counsilman in 1982 and is one of the fastest pools in the world.

Counsilman died on Jan. 4, 2004 at the age of 83. He and his wife, Marge, had three children, Brian, Cathy and Jill, and five grandchildren.

Established in 1969, the C-Club Hall of Fame recognizes Cortland alumni who competed as athletes at the College and who have since distinguished themselves in their professions and within their communities. Honorary members are recognized for their long and significant contributions to SUNY Cortland athletics. New C-Club members have been added annually for the past 36 years. This year's ceremony will bring the Hall of Fame roster to 182 alumni and 20 honorary members.

The C-Club Board of Directors would like to express their sincere thanks and appreciation to the entire Alumni Affairs Office staff, to Public Relations Director Pete Koryzno and to Sports Information Director Fran Elia for their long and dedicated service in making the Hall of Fame Weekend and Banquet a significant and memorable event dedicated to Cortland's rich athletic tradition.

SUNY Cortland Today

Located atop one of the rolling hills in central New York's "City of Seven Valleys," the State University of New York College at Cortland was founded in 1868 as the Cortland Normal School. Over the years, the campus expanded and in 1941, by an act of Legislature and the Board of Regents, the institution officially became a four-year college providing courses leading to the bachelor's degree. In 1948, Cortland was a founding member of the State University.

In Fall 2005, a total of 7,210 students — 5,935 undergraduate and 1,275 graduate students, including 290 Certificate for Advanced Study students — are pursuing degrees within the College's three academic divisions — Education, Arts and Sciences and Professional Studies. Twenty-three academic departments with a faculty of more than 500 offer the SUNY Cortland student body some 100 programs from which to choose.

The College's main campus covers 191 acres and includes 38 buildings. Fifteen of these structures are residence halls providing on-campus housing for 2,800 students. Cortland also operates its Outdoor Education Center at Raquette Lake in the Adirondacks, which became SUNY's first National Historic Landmark in 2004, as well as Hoxie Gorge Nature Preserve near Cortland, and Brauer Memorial Geological Field Station near Albany.

At Cortland, athletics are viewed as having an important role in the educational mission of the College. During the fall, winter and spring seasons, Cortland participates in 25 intercollegiate sports — 14 women's and 11 men's — in an attempt to provide a broad program which meets the needs, interests and abilities of its students.

The College offers its student-athletes excellent athletic facilities, including the nation's finest small college outdoor stadium complex. Opened in 2002, the stadium has two artificial surface fields, seating for 6,500 at the main field and for 1,500 at the auxiliary field, a towering two-story press box, locker rooms, the Karel Horak Athletic Training Facility and the Carl "Chugger" Davis Building with administrative and ticket offices at the entrance. An eight-lane track and jumping pits surround the auxiliary field. State-of-the-art lighting serves the entire facility.

The Bessie L. Park '01 Center for Physical Education and Recreation features a main gym with seating for 3,600; an Olympic-sized swimming pool with gallery seating for 1,500; Alumni Arena which can accommodate 2,500 spectators for ice hockey; racquetball and squash courts, a wrestling room, the John L. Sciera '52 Athletic Training Room and the Francis Woods '56 Fitness Center. Lusk Field House, with its tartan-textured surface, is home to the indoor track teams. Cortland soccer teams play on Holloway Field. The College has 22 outdoor tennis courts.
