DONNAL V. SMITH

Greetings:

Cortland welcomes all of its visitors and the football team from Stroudsburg. We are happy to be able to resume inter-collegiate sports competition for the first time since 1942. Most of the competitors are veterans, men who have seen service in the armed forces of the United States on the battlefields of many theaters of war. It is significant that after this service they can return to civilian life and take up their education where it was interrupted by the war. Football contributed its share to the development of the type of young manhood that made victory in war possible. Undoubtedly, it contributes equally as much in preparing men to take up pursuits of peace time. It is a part of American life. Symbolical of sportsmanship it is stimulus for high ideals on the part of those who watch the game.

Bright or fair, we think the Hilltop a beautiful spot. May this afternoon bring pleasure to the young men who play the game as well as to those who are privileged to watch it and the other sports of peace time. In this, as in all other athletic contests, may the best team win.

FRANCIS J. MOENCH
Director of Training for Physical

Students, Faculty, Alumni, and Friends:

We are tickled to be back in intercollegiate football competition again. We expect the best team ever and so do all of our opponents.

Get behind the team and show them that you will support them and I am sure that you will be pleased with the results.

COACH DAVIS

CARL A. DAVIS
Head Coach

Director of Athletics

Cortland State Teachers has always promoted competitive athletics as a part of a well-rounded physical education. During the past few years, competitive athletics went to war. One has only to read the record to learn of the great contribution made by competitive athletics to a country at war. Our competitive sports should be of even greater value to a Democratic nation at peace. It is with keen interest and professional satisfaction, then, that we look forward to the renewal of our pre-war sports program with the return of intercollegiate football and soccer. The year 1946 will go down in history as a banner year for athletics at Cortland only in so far as the members of the teams, the coaching staff, the student body, the college faculty and administration and our loyal Cortland supporters join forces to make it the best year ever.

FRANCIS J. MOENCH

Cortland State Teachers College is highly pleased to be able this year to reinstate football as an integral part of its intercollegiate athletic program. We welcome the members of the Stroudsburg team and their followers to our campus today and sincerely hope they will return often in the future as our guests.

On behalf of the Men's Athletic Association we wish to express our appreciation to all of the associations, organizations and other agencies who have contributed to the successful promotion of inter-collegiate athletics at Cortland this year. We extend especial thanks to the business firms who by their advertisements in the program have made its publication possible, and to the Cortland Baking Company for furnishing the public address system for our remaining home football games.

Mr. Eugene H. Martin is head coach of East Stroudsburg State Teachers college. He also serves as Dean of Men at this institution. After graduation from West Chester, Pennsylvania, State Teachers College in 1925, he coached at Gettysburg and Mahanoy City High Schools for several years. Cortland fans will also remember that he coached the Mansfield State Teachers College football teams between 1936 and 1940. Mr. Martin started his coaching career at East Stroudsburg with the 1942 season, when his team was undefeated in the seven-game schedule. He is assisted by Mr. Frances Hoffman and Mr. Frank Grimm, both of whom are members of our faculty in the Health and Physical Education Department. Mr. Hoffman had an outstanding record of football coaching at Glen-Nor High School in Glen Olden, Pennsylvania, where his teams had three straight undefeated seasons just prior to the war. Mr. Grimm came to us from Muskingum College of Ohio where he coached football, basketball and baseball.

THE RULE CHANGERS FUEL UP THE WINGED-"T"

by Cal Small

SOME of the most decisive actions in football, believe it or not, have taken place, not on the football field, but over a table surrounded by the members of the Football Rules Committee of the N.C.A.A. Last year, in their first action of changing the rules frozen in January of 1942, the committee passed a regulation legalizing the throwing of forward passes from any point behind the line of scrimmage. The result, as football fans know, was to open up offensive play tremendously (especially the T attack).

This year the committee, meeting in January, passed several rule changes, one of which may tend to revolutionize the game fully as much as their decision of the previous year. The new regulations voted by the group, then under Colonel Bingham's leadership, were:

1. To permit one backfield player of the offensive team to line up less than one yard behind his scrimmage line if stationed with his hands in position to receive a pass-back made between the snapper's legs. This player may receive the snap, or it may be made directly to another backfield player.

2. To allow more liberal use of hands and forearms on offense.

3. To stop the clock only for the actual period required for making a substitution, not for a full two minutes.

4. To permit an official to acknowledge a substitute by the wave of a hand instead of requiring a player to report formally.

5. To increase the number of time-outs permitted each half from three to four.

6. To penalize the offensive team fifteen yards from the scrimmage line for a foul on a kicked ball instead of the penalty of loss of the ball.

Rule No. 1 (above) may very well lead to the ascendancy of a mighty new formation: the Winged-T. This clever variation of the basic T, which stations the right halfback at a wing position two yards behind and outside the right end, first came into prominence in the fall of 1945. Employed principally by Columbia and Dartmouth among the bigger colleges, the Winged-T has the advantage of being able to use T-formation and single-wing plays with equal facility and without the tip-off of a shift. The quarterback can handle the ball first and then slip it to another back and, with the right halfback going into motion, a regular T-formation offense can operate. Or, the ball can be centered back directly to the left halfback or fullback, and a full-pledged single-wing play—with the right halfback acting as blocker and two and three man interference escorting the ball-carrier—can be worked.

The Winged-T was highly successful in its debut last fall but there was one rule in the books which prevented it from soaring as effectively as it might. The regulation stipulated that a quarterback had either to receive the ball directly from the center or drop back so that no part of his body was closer than one yard behind the line of scrimmage. Naturally, if the quarterback stepped back it was a dead give-away that the ball was being snapped to another back and a single-wing play was in progress. On the other hand, if the quarterback stayed up behind his center the opposition knew it could get set for a T-formation play. If the quarterback had set up a "walkie-talkie" apparatus he could not have telegraphed the opposition any better than he was forced to do under the old rule. The new regulation, which permits the quarterback to remain directly in back of his center, regardless of whether he receives the ball, promises to add real deception to the Winged-T and make it an even more potent formation.

Compared to the possible effects of the first rule, the other changes (see above) are minor. The second rule change is a boon to the offense in general. It liberalizes the strict regulation of the year before, which restricted the use of hands and forearms in blocking, requiring that they remain in contact with the blocker's body. Rules No. 3 and 4 are designed to speed up the game and make it more interesting for the spectator. Under Rule No. 3, although a time-out is charged for a substitution, the full two minute period is not taken, unless the Captain wishes it. But since it costs his team a second time-out the practice of slowing the game down by substitutions from the bench is discouraged. The quick recognition of a substitute by an official (Rule No. 4) also lessens time needed for changes. The increase in time-outs permitted, however, under Rule No. 5, offsets the effect of regulations which are aimed at preventing slow-down of the game, and which cut down a sometimes needed rest for players. Rule No. 6 has an interesting history. In the middle thirties when Larry Kelley of Yale was cavorting around the gridiron, he "accidentally" kicked a fumbled ball along the ground and fell on it for a touchdown. A strict rule was passed penalizing the offensive team with the loss of ball for such an action. The new rule eases up the penalty.

But the most momentous ruling made by the Rules Committee of 1946 was the regulation which may cause the Winged-T to fly high this year!

Competing in their eighth season of Intercollegiate Soccer under the tutelage of Coach T. F. Holloway, the Red Mules of Cortland State Teachers College are once more attempting to battle their way into the National Soccer spotlight. For many years the teams representing Cortland have always been among the leaders in the East, taking on all comers sometimes winning, sometimes losing but always putting up a good fight.

Coach Holloway is a well known figure in the soccer world having played, coached and talked about the game for a good many years. Incidentally, he can still play a pretty good game as some of the Varsity men will tell you.

So far this season the Varsity has accounted for two victories and has been defeated once. In the opening game of the season the Red Mules handed Oswego State a 11-0 setback but the following weekend they tasted defeat at the hands of Springfield College by a 9-2 score. Then they won a 3-1 encounter with Brockport last Saturday. With six more games left on the schedule all of us are hoping for a winning streak of six straight. GOOD LUCK COACH HOLLOWAY AND THE RED MULES.
